THE MAGIC NUMBER.

A Suggestion by the Cynic That Set the Others Thinking.

"I often hear of the magic number," said some one. "What number is it?"

"Why, nine, of course," replied some one else. "There are nine muses, you know, and you talk of a nine days' wonder. Then you bowl at ninepins, and a cat has nine lives."

"Nonsense!" broke in another. "Seven is the magic number. Seventh heaven, don't you know, and all that; seven colors in the rainbow, seven days in the week, seventh son of a seventh son—great fellow—and"—

"Tush, tush!" remarked a third. "Five's the number you mean. A man has five fingers on his hand and five toes on his foot, and he has five senses, and"—

"Three is undoubtedly the magic number," interrupted another, "because people give three cheers, and Jonah was inside a whale three days and three nights, and if at first you don't succeed, try, try again—three times, you see!"

This was received with some contempt by the company, and a soulful youth gushed out:

"Two, oh, two is the magic number—oneself and one other, the adored one—just two!"

A hard featured individual, who had been listening to the conversation hitherto unmoved, here remarked in a harsh voice:

"The magic number is number one in this world, and if you want to succeed never forget it."

An interval of deep thought on the part of all followed, after which they went in silently to supper.—Pearson's.

That Cough Hangs On

You have used all sorts of cough remedies but it does not yield; it is too deep seated. It may wear itself out in time, but it is more liable to produce la grippe, pneumonia or a serious throat affection. You need something that will give you strength and build up the body.

SCOTT'S EMULSION

will do this when everything else fails. There is no doubt about it. It nourishes, strengthens, builds up and makes the body strong and healthy, not only to throw off this hard cough, but to fortify the system against further attacks. If you are run down or emaciated you should certainly take this nourishing food medicine.

Egotism of Genius.

A writer in the London Standard declares the idea that genius is usually modest to be a popular delusion. On the contrary, he alleges egotism to be the very essence of true genius and quotes many amusing examples.

When Wordsworth, Southey and Coleridge were walking together and Coleridge remarked that the day was so fine "it might have been ordered for three poets," the gentle Wordsworth promptly exclaimed: "Three poets! Who are the other two?"

Disraeli, then a mere youth, wrote to his sister that he had heard Macaulay, Sheil and Grant speak, "but between ourselves I could floor them all." And again he said, "When I want to read a good book, I write one."

Our own Joaquin Miller wrote to Walt Whitman: "You and I are over the head of the rabble. We know we are great, and if other people don't know it it is their own fault."

It was President Grant who, being told that a certain senator, an admitted genius who was very hostile to him, did not believe the Bible, expressed his estimate of the senator's egotism by rejoining: "Why should he? He didn't write it, you know."—New York World.

Buying a Razor.

"I need a new razor," said the man who shaves himself.

"Better let me get it for you," suggested the reformed barber, who, now that he is a trolley car conductor, regards himself as a distinguished member of society. "All cutlery stores are filled with razors of the class known as 'dead ones.' When a barber buys a razor, he takes it with the understanding that he is to try it out, and if it doesn't work well he takes it back and gets another one, keeping this up until he gets one that suits him. Buying a razor, you know, is a lottery in which the prizes are few and far between. When the ordinary citizen goes to a cutlery store, he picks out what he thinks is a good razor, pays for it and takes his chances. He picks one out, too, from the bunch of 'dead ones' that barbers have tried and found wanting. That's why I advise you to let me get it for you. Then if you don't like it I can keep exchanging it until you get a good one. They needn't know I've quit the business."—Philadelphia Record.

The Woolsack.

Back during the time of Queen Elizabeth an act of parliament was passed prohibiting the exportation of wool. This product was one of the great sources of the natural wealth of England at that time, and in accordance with the economic notions of the age the authorities attempted to keep it in the country, imagining that if it went abroad, even though something more valuable or desirable were exchanged for it, the country would be the poorer.

In order to hold the importance of this commodity before the minds of the national legislators woolsacks were placed in the house of lords, where the judges sat. Hence the lord chancellor, who presides over the house of lords, "sits on the woolsack." The woolsack, according to a printed description, is a "large square bag of wool without back or arms and covered with red cloth."

"Faints."

Fusel oil, or "faints," as it is commonly called about the distilleries in England, according to the London Lancet, is a primary amyl alcohol mixed with primary and secondary propyl alcohols. In England it can be obtained gratis at some distilleries. It is used locally as an external application for rheumatism. It is obtained from fermented grain or potatoes by continuing the process of distillation after the ordinary spirit has all "come over." It is an oily liquid, with a burning, acrid taste and an odor said to resemble jargonelle pear. It has intoxicating and poisonous properties considerably more powerful than ordinary spirits.

Must Give a Horseshoe.

An old manorial rite exists at Oakham, in Rutlandshire, England, where every peer of the realm is bound the first time he enters the town to present a horseshoe to be nailed on the old portal, which is well nigh covered with these tributes. It is said that in case any contumacious peer should refuse to pay this tax the authorities have a right to stop his carriage and levy blackmail by unshoeing one of the horses. To avert so serious an annoyance the tribute shoe is generally ready, some being of enormous size and inscribed with the name of the donor.

Harsh Neighbors.

"How do you like your neighbors?"

"Not a bit," said the woman who was tying a little boy's hat on. "You see, they don't like children."

"How do you know?"

"They hurt Reginald's feelings dreadfully. When he throws stones at their dog or plays the hose on their window, they look real cross at him!"—Washington Star.

The Unpleasant Boarder.

"You do not often get better steak than that," said the landlady, hoping for a compliment.

"Yes, I seldom eat elsewhere," replied De Grouch, to whom it was always easier to keep up his reputation than his board bill.—Indianapolis News.

The Blow Landed.

She doesn't go to her clubs and euchres half as much as she did. People used to say this charming woman spent most of her time at these gatherings. One day she called on a dear friend to reprove her for her slackening interest in the club. I believe it was a club for reforming the gas meter or something—anyhow it was a reform affair.

"Look here, Lizzie," said the enthusiast, "why on earth don't you come to the meetings? Here you are paying your dues and never showing up. You owe it to the club to take an interest in the work."

"But I can't come," explained her friend. "There's the baby, and Henry doesn't come home sometimes till late, and supper must wait, and if he wants to go out I can't go away and leave the children. I would worry myself to death."

"Well, I must say Henry is inconsiderate," said the caller. "Why, there's my husband and children too. They give me no trouble. Every time I want to go to the club Charlie says he will be glad to stay at home with Bridget and keep an eye on things till I come back. He never objects."

"Maybe," retorted the amiable hostess, "if I had a housegirl as handsome and young as Bridget Henry would be glad to stay at home, too, but mine is black and goes home at nights."

The blow landed, and Charlie hasn't been asked to look after Bridget and the house since.—Louisville Times.

Length of Dreams.

Three physicians were discussing the matter of the length of dreams a day or two ago, when one of them related a strange experience.

"Yesterday afternoon," he said, "I called to see a patient, and, much to my satisfaction, I found him sleeping soundly. I sat by his bed, felt of his pulse without disturbing him and waited for him to awaken. After a few minutes a junk dealer's cart with discordant ringing bells turned into the street, and as their first tones reached us my patient opened his eyes.

"'Doctor,' he said, 'I'm glad to see you and awfully glad that you woke me, for I have been tortured by a most distressing dream that must have lasted for several hours. I dreamed that I was sick, as I am, and that my boy came into the room with a string of most horribly sounding sleighbells and rang them in my ears, while I hadn't power to move or speak to him. I suffered tortures for what appeared to be an interminable time. I'm so glad you woke me.'

"The ringing of those bells for one second had caused all of that dream and just at the waking moment."—New York Herald.

Hairbrushes.

No amount of washing of the hair will keep it clean if dirty brushes are used, yet persons otherwise fairly neat are careless in this respect. A specialist says that hairbrushes should be washed once a week and, if used on hair in which there is much dandruff, twice a week is not too often. The brushes should be washed in cold, not hot, water, to which cloudy ammonia has been added in the proportion of a scant tablespoonful to a quart of water. Care should be taken not to wet the backs of the brushes, and when washed and rinsed—a good way to rinse them properly is to use a shower spray on them—they should be put on edge in the air to dry. Dress combs, too, should be frequently cleaned, a comb cleaner being used for the purpose.

"A Nine Days' Wonder."

The memorable reign of Lady Jane Grey is said to have given rise to the phrase, "A nine days' wonder." Lady Jane was proclaimed queen of England July 10, 1553, four days after the death of Edward VI. After the lapse of a period of nine days, on July 19, she relinquished her title to the crown, thus terminating her reign in the short space of a week and a half. A noted English historian says, "Thus we come to the end of the diary of that short and troubled reign that from its length is said to have given rise to the now (1620) popular phrase, 'A nine days' wonder.'"

Recklessness.

"Inherited wealth," exclaimed the blase young man, with a dreary yawn, "is a curse!"

"Then why don't you try to get rid of it" asked the youth who hadn't inherited any wealth.

"I am doing the best I can," rejoined the other. "I keep a yacht, run an automobile, belong to a swell golf club and lend you money."—Chicago Tribune.

A Novelty.

"Suppose I give you your supper," said the tired looking woman. "What will you do to earn it?"

"Madam," said Meandering Mike, "I'll give you de opportunity of seein' a man go t'roo a whole meal wit'out findin' fault wit' a single thing."

The woman thought a minute and then told him to come in and she'd set the table.—Washington Star.

All Hands Smoking.

Tobacco is in Tehuantepec a great industry. One evening some of our party of sixteen were kindly given a night's shelter, Mexican fashion, at a hacienda or farmhouse. Hotels, except in the large towns, are unknown. It was about 9 p. m. when we arrived. Sitting on the wide veranda to receive us we beheld the entire family. On the right of the door was the lady of the house in a white cotton gown, smoking a cigar. Below her were the daughters and handmaidens, also smoking. On the other side of the door was the ranchero or master himself, with his sons and manservants. Every one was employed in rolling the tobacco leaf into cigars, and every one was smoking, including a little boy not quite three years old, who had a full sized cigar in his baby mouth, while in his left hand he held a banana from which he took bites between the puffs, occasionally stopping to play with a small puppy dog.

"Does he often smoke?" I asked in amazement.

"Si, senora. He smokes three or four cigars a day. All our children have done so at that age." Adaptability of temperament to climate!—Fortnightly Review.

Passing a Bargain.

"Perhaps you've had a man offer you a big bargain in a diamond ring?" queried the Boston drummer as he heaved a sigh and his face went cloudy.

"Yes, several times," laughed the Pullman conductor.

"I was in Pittsburg," continued the drummer, "and while standing on a street corner a chap came along and offered me a shiner as big as a bean for $50. He was a stranger, hard up and all that. It looked to be a ring worth $350."

"And you gave him $50?"

"No. He hung on for half an hour, but I turned him down. I'm no man to be roped in that way."

"Then what—what"—

"Oh, another fellow bought the ring."

"And he was out his fifty?"

"He was in $300. That ring, sir, was O. K. and all serene, and a jeweler priced it at the figure named. The man was honest, and I was a fool, and you will please excuse me while I retire and kick myself for not knowing a piece of glass from a pure water sparkler."

A Savage Bluejay.

A sportsman camping on one of the lakes of Sullivan county, N. Y., offered to bet $10 to $1 that nobody in his party could guess how he had received an injury to a finger which he held bleeding before the spectators. No one guessed, and the man went on to explain that while standing by the lake he had seen a bluejay flying over so close above his head that he instinctively threw up his hand to stop it. The bird neither stopped nor swerved, but instead dashed straight for the hand, striking it with such force that the bill penetrated to the bone and sent the blood spurting as though the man had been struck by a knife.

This sort of action is in line with the general conduct of the jay. It is one of the most aggressive birds on the continent, robbing the nests of other birds and sometimes even killing young squirrels. The chief good thing that can be said of it is that it often robs the nest of the English sparrow.

The Maori and the Witness.

Captain Hayes in his book, "Among Horses In South Africa," tells several amusing stories. A friend of his in New Zealand had been a government interpreter among the Maoris and had many stories to tell about these people. On one occasion a native chief, who was under cross examination in court, on being asked why he had not brought a certain man with him replied:

"I have brought him."

"But," said the barrister, looking in vain round the court, "I don't see him. Where is he?"

"He is here," chuckled the Maori proudly, stroking his massive chest.

Peculiar Taxation In Holland.

Some of the most peculiar of taxations recorded are to be found in the archives of Holland. In 1791, for instance, there was in existence a tax imposed on all passengers traveling in Holland. In 1874 a duty of 2 shillings was levied on each person who entered a tavern before noon, on those who entered a place of entertainment, on marriages and deaths and on many other things. If a person was buried out of the district to which he belonged, the tax was payable twice over.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

The Horses and Saddle.

A man bought three horses and a saddle for $220. If he puts the saddle on the first horse, they cost as much as the other two horses; if he puts the saddle on the second horse, they cost two times as much as the first and third, and if he puts the saddle on the third horse they cost three times as much as the first and second. Find the cost of each.—Mathematical Puzzles.

Mr. Thomasson's Lesson.

"Yes," said Mr. Thomasson, "I went home intoxicated one night about ten years ago, and the lesson my wife taught me made a lasting impression on my brain."

"SHE BURNS GREEN."

The Discovery of Borax In Death Valley by Aaron Winters.

The greatest discovery of borax in the United States was made in the terribly hot region known as Death valley and in a most romantic way. The Chicago Record tells the story.

In 1880 Aaron Winters lived with his wife, Rosie, in a gulch known as Ash Meadows, not far from the mouth of Death valley. He was so fond of his wife that he would not allow her to be long absent from him, although their little hut on the side of the mountain was a hundred miles from the nearest neighbor, in a wild, rugged, forsaken country.

One day a desert tramp came along and spent the night at the Winters home. He told the hunter about the borax deposits of Nevada. When he went away, Winters thought that he had seen deposits of the same kind on his explorations into Death valley.

Accordingly he and his wife went together to make the search, having previously provided themselves with certain test chemicals, which when combined with borax and ignited would produce a green flame.

Having procured a piece of the substance which he believed to be borax, Winters and his wife waited for nightfall to make the test. How would it burn?

For years they had lived like Plutes on the desert, entirely without luxuries and often wanting for the very necessities of life. Would the match change all that?

Winters held the blaze to the substance with a trembling hand, then shouted at the top of his voice: "She burns green, Rosie! We're rich! We're rich!"

They had found borax. The mine was sold for $20,000, and Winters took his Rosie to a ranch in Nevada.

Blundered Into It.

He—And so you are really going to marry that professor—you, the heroine of a thousand engagements! How did you ever come to accept him?

His Cousin (from college)—Why, you see, he proposed in Greek, and when I refused him I got mixed up in my negatives and accepted him, and now I'm too proud to acknowledge my blunder.

Hunt—It seems strange to me to hear you criticise your wife's reflections as harangues, in view of the fact that in the earlier days of your married life you spoke of your wife's voice as the very soul of music.

KITCHEN HELPS.

Use a pancake lifter to place cookies on the baking tin and to remove them.

To clarify fat after frying throw in a few slices of raw potato and simmer all for a few minutes.

Grease spots that have become hard and burned in on ranges may be removed by rubbing with a few drops of kerosene on a cloth.

Sometimes the fishy smell will cling to knives and forks after oily fish like salmon or mackerel has been served. Cut a lemon, rub them with it, and the disagreeable odor will vanish.

Sometimes a large roasting pan, being infrequently used, gets rusty. To prevent wash it well after using, dry it in the oven, then while warm rub it over with a greased cloth and hang it away.

Old newspapers save work in the kitchen. When you have any "messy" task on hand, like dressing a chicken, pickling over fruit, etc., lay a paper on the table, gather the litter up with it and burn all together. This saves scouring the table.

A Garden of Milk.

The Milk garden of Frankfort, reserved for the children of that aristocratic city, is in itself one of the most democratic of places. Here rich people who wish to be relieved for a time of the presence of their children send them, accompanied by their nurses. Here also poor people who can neither afford to devote their own time to their children nor hire separate nurses for them may bring their little ones, certain that from the garden nurses they will receive all the care and attention necessary to safety, health and amusement.

Private nurses of the rich people and public nurses of the working people are subject to a supervision sufficient to protect the children of all classes from cruelty and neglect. The only food furnished in the garden is milk, whose freshness and purity are assured, inasmuch as it is drunk warm from the mild eyed cows which occupy stalls on one edge of the field.

When Children Smoked.

Jorevin de Rochefort, who published in Paris in 1671 an account of his travels in England, tells the following: "While we were walking about the town (Worcester) he asked me if it was the custom in France as in England that when the children went to school they carried in their satchel with their books a pipe of tobacco, which their mothers took care to fill early in the morning, it serving them instead of breakfast, and that at the accustomed hour every one laid aside his book to light his pipe, the master smoking with them and teaching them how to hold their pipes and draw in the tobacco."

In England at the time of the great plague it was reported that no one living in a tobacconist's house fell sick of the disease. This caused a great demand for tobacco. Hearne says in his diary, "I remember that I heard formerly Tom Rogers, who was yeoman beadle, say that when he was a schoolboy at Eton that year when the plague raged all the boys of that school were obliged to smoke every morning and that he was never whipped so much in his life as he was one morning for not smoking."

"IMPOSSIBLE, for you to enjoy the happiness of motherhood," says the doctor. Sometimes he qualifies the statement, and says: "Impossible without an operation." Yet both these "impossibles" have been made possibles by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Many times the hindrances to motherhood are to be found in womanly diseases or weaknesses, which are perfectly and permanently cured by "Favorite Prescription."

This great medicine for women cures irregularity and dries debilitating drains. It heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

"I wish to add my testimony to hundreds of others as to the value of Dr. Pierce's medicines," writes Mrs. Ida M. De Ford, of Latona, Hubbard Co., Minn. "Have doctored with a great many physicians—some specialists; have twice been in a hospital for treatment. My case has been regarded as a hopeless one, and they knew not what the trouble was. Heart was bad; stomach all out of order; tired out; severe pains in all parts of the body; sinking spells, and nearly every ailment a woman could have. I took many a bottle of 'patent medicines' without effect. I began taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and ten months afterward I gave birth to a ten-pound boy. All physicians had stated as a fact that I never could bear a child. Both the baby and myself were strong, and I got along splendidly—thanks to your medicine."

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

We look to the friends of the Ledger to keep us posted concerning events of public interest happening in any part of the county. Our regular correspondents will be furnished with writing material and stamps for this purpose. Births, deaths, marriages, accidents, amusements, mining and other industrial progress, social topics, new buildings, persons leaving or coming into the county, are always acceptable. Give details of important items, no matter in how rough a shape. Avoid personal remarks that might give offense. Visitors between towns in the county need not be mentioned, but visits from or to places beyond the county may be recorded.

THOSE FEES FOR LEGAL SERVICES.

We have taken the trouble to examine more closely into the matter of the claims of W. J. McGee, as special counsel in the case of Thomas Conlon, trustee, et al, vs. C. L. Culbert, county auditor. It will be remembered that mandamus proceedings were started to compel the county auditor to add such an amount to the tax levy for school purposes as would, when added to the levy already made by the board, make up the sum of $6 per census child. The further we look into this affair, the more its remarkable and peculiar features come to the front. Indeed, the whole history of the case serves to show how unceremoniously the provisions of law are ignored by officers whose duty it is to see that they are respected. The mandamus suit was commenced in the superior court September 29, 1899. The district attorney is the legal adviser of all county officials, and it is his business to defend all suits in which the county is made a party, and wherein county money is involved. The district attorney, however, says he was not consulted on the subject of taking charge of this case. The auditor, seemingly on his own motion and without first securing the sanction of the board of supervisors, employed W. J. McGee to represent him in the action. There was no time of course, to appeal to the supervisors for a special attorney before the superior court. It would seem to us therefore the auditor in employing other than the district attorney, assumed the responsibility for the payment of special counsel himself. It certainly cannot be contended that any county officer may hire any attorney whom he pleases, and shoulder the payment of his fee upon the public treasury. In October, 1899, the writ of mandate was dismissed by the superior court, the auditor thereby winning the suit. Then followed a long pause in the proceedings. Nothing more was heard of the case until April, 1900, when the following bill was presented to the board of supervisors by Mr. McGee:

To legal services rendered and expenses incurred in Jackson school district vs. C. L. Culbert, auditor—superior and supreme courts	$ 200 00
	$250 00

This is the first intimation conveyed to the board of supervisors, so far as we can ascertain from the minutes that such a case was pending against the county. No steps had been taken to appeal the suit to the supreme court. No sanction of the employment of special counsel had been made by the supervisors up to this time. Mr. McGee was about to start for a tour of Europe. Of course no services had been rendered in the supreme court, because the suit had not reached that tribunal. The only way we can understand this is that the higher court was included, so that in case an appeal was taken the fee was to be inclusive of services in that court also. The district attorney—who by the way did not indorse this first bill as a legal claim—says this was his clear understanding of the matter at that time. The bill was passed by unanimous vote of the board. Nothing further was heard of the case until February 5, 1901, when C. L. Culbert, as county auditor, notified the board that he had employed Mr. McGee to represent him in the case; and that plaintiffs having appealed, he had requested Mr. McGee to represent him in the higher court, and asked the supervisors to ratify his action in the employment of Mr. McGee, so that the county would be responsible for his fee. From this we are forced to the conclusion that although a fee of $250 for services in superior and supreme courts had been paid ten months before, there had been no employment of a special attorney by the county up to this time. It is difficult to understand what fee the county was asked to become responsible for. Was it the one already irregularly paid, or one to be demanded thereafter? No wonder that first bill lacked the endorsement of the district attorney as a legal claim. The board, however, without a dissenting voice, ratified the action of the auditor in his selection of counsel outside of the district attorney.

The next heard of the matter was in June, 1901, when Mr. McGee appeared before the board and reported that he had argued the case before the supreme court on the 15th of May.

The final step was referred to last week, when the second bill of $500 for services in the supreme court—already specified and paid for beforehand in the first bill—was presented and allowed.

In regard to this claim we have been informed by the district attorney that he told the board officially and privately that it was an improper demand, and should not be allowed.

We cheerfully give place to the communication of Mr. McGee which appears in another column, and which presents his version of the matter. We can see nothing therein to cause us to modify our views already expressed. We are as much in the dark as ever regarding the payment of a fee both before and after employment by the county. We cannot understand what services were rendered for the respondent in the supreme court prior to April, 1900, when the supervisors were not notified that an appeal had been taken until February, 1901. We fail to see that a special attorney, even when regulary employed by a county, has any authority by virtue of such employment to hire additional counsel, and thereby saddle an additional fee upon the public treasury. We have failed to mention a number of the sidelights referred to by our correspondent, for the reason that in our opinion they are not material to the issue. Finally, we may remark, that from beginning to end of this school tax case one all-important fact seems to have been overlooked by all the parties who aided in piling up this double-shotted cost bill for legal services—namely, that Amador county employs a district attorney at $1800 per year to look after its legal business. If this one living fact is indelibly impressed upon the minds of county officials for their future guidance, this ventilation of an unpleasant subject will not have been in vain

RICHARD WEBB volunteers the statement that at the age of sixteen years he was ordained as a preacher. —Dispatch.

Our cotemporary seems to be so constituted tnat he cannot tell the truth. The above contains two barefaced falsehoods. We defy him to produce any statement made in the Ledger that will sustain his preverted assertion. In the first place we never volunteered any statement on the subject. If the truth-inflationist of the Dispatch does not know the difference between an ordained and unordained preacher, he had better quit airing his ignorance. The effect of misrepresentation is equally bad whether it springs from ignorance or depravity. But when, as in the above instance, the truth is placed before him, and he wilfully distorts it into a lie, he thereby brands himself as a moral outlaw.

THE Ione board of trade is agitating for the appointment of a health officer for Ione. Just why Ione is enitled to a health officer more than any other town in the county does not appear. If the valley town needs a special officer to look after its sanitary affairs at the expense of the entire county, the board of supervisors would be in justice bound to grant the same protection to at least five other towns, namely, Jackson, Sutter Creek, Amador City, Plymouth and Volcano. That method of trying to scatter health germs—or dissipate disease germs—has been tried and voted a dismal failure. The truth is there is no law authorizing the board of supervisors to appoint a health officer for any particular town, in the absence of a general health officer for the county. With a county health officer, assistants might in cases of emergency be appointed at various points, but not otherwise.

THE vagrancy law, in its most objectionable features at least, has been declared unconstitutional. The idea that a man who is found roaming from place to place, and having no visible means of support, is a proper subject to be landed in jail, has proved a lucrative proposition for constables and justices, and a costly one for many county treasuries. To be an idle roamer is not a very honorable profession, but it is not in itself a criminal one. It is a source of satisfaction that this odious law, so out of joint with the spirit of our free institutions, has been knocked out by the courts.

COMMUNICATION.

JACKSON, CAL., Feb. 8, 1902.
To the editor of the Amador Ledger,
Sir:—

In the issue of your paper of February 7th you do the board of supervisors and myself an injustice, and in your article entitled "Claim for Legal Services," you did not fully and fairly publish the true facts.

The first claim presented on April 2, 1900, for $250, was for legal services rendered, expenses incurred, and money paid associate counsel up to that date. These services included the trial of the case in the superior court, and some preliminary services in the supreme court, and also expenses incurred in a trip from Jackson to San Francisco. All I individually received out of this $250 was about $150. Thereafter the case went through the supreme court, covering a period of nearly two years, and a subsequent bill of $500 was presented for services rendered from April 2, 1900, up to the decision of the case, to wit, the latter part of 1901.

You failed to state in your article that W. H. Willis of the law firm of Freeman & Willis, who were attorneys for the school districts, testified before the board that under the contract they had the firm of Freeman & Willis would have received from their clients the sum of $1500 had they won the case. You also failed to state that the board of supervisors called in Hon. John F. Davis and Hon. A. Caminetti, and asked them if in their judgment the charge was a fair one, and they both replied in the affirmative. You also failed to state that the reason of the offer on my part to defend other suits growing out of the same matter free of charge was because Judge Davis suggested to the board that it was barely possible another suit might be brought, and although the attorneys for the school districts said that the matter was ended, at the request of the board I agreed to make no further charges if there was any further litigation.

You also failed to state that the District Attorney was present throughout the hearing, and that before the board passed the claim they asked his advice on the same.

You also failed to state that in explanation of the employment of assistant counsel by myself I was authorized so to do by Supervisors Dwyer and Brinn.

You intimate in your article that when the first bill was rendered it was "supposed" to be in full, and yet the bill as published by you shows on its face that it was for services and expenses up to that time, to wit, April 2, 1900, as the wording of the bill is—"To services rendered and expenses incurred." You say, "there is nothing in the bill to show that it is merely a partial settlement;" I submit there is nothing in the bill to indicate that it was to cover future services and expenses. Both bills were fully explained to the board at the meetings in December, January, and February, and the board had the latter bill under consideration for three months, and understood it thoroughly, and knew the bill was withdrawn in December and January under the statement that it would be presented again. The bill was withdrawn by me to avoid its being laid over at the December and January meetings, the board being desirous of further time to consider it.

You say that apparently the same ground was covered by both claims, but in this you are mistaken as previously shown in this communication. You say that the name of the special counsel does not appear on the bill, but I repeatedly stated his name—Mr. F. S. Brittain, attorney for the Hibernia Savings and Loan Society of San Francisco—to the board, and, if I mistake not, in your presence.

Finally you fail to state in explanation of the claim that the litigation involved a large amount of money, embracing for the three years nearly $20,000, which was saved to the taxpayers of the county, and when the case was in the supreme court I agreed with the supervisors that if the school districts won the case I would make no charge for my services in the supreme court, but, if on the other hand, the suit was decided in favor of the Auditor, I would ask for a fair fee.

You intimate that the warrant was cashed at once because I was fearful some one would protest against its payment, but in answer to this let me say that if you or any other taxpayer want to contest the payment at your own expense and not at the county's I will freely return the money to the treasurer so that you may have an opportunity to do so.

Very respectfully yours,
WM. J. McGEE.

Saved Him From Torture.

There is no more agonizing trouble than piles. The constant itching and burning make life intolerable. No position is comfortable. The torture is unceasing. De Witt's Witch Hazel Salve cures piles at once. For skin diseases, cuts, burns, bruises, all kinds of wounds it is unequalled. J. S. Gerall, St. Paul, Ark., says: "From 1865 I suffered with the protruding, bleeding piles and could find nothing to help me until I used De Witt's Witch Hazel Salve. A few boxes completely cured me." Beware of counterfeits. Kerr's Pharmacy, Jackson.

District Attorney's Opinion.

The district attorney has, at the request of C. L. Culbert, county clerk, given the following opinion in writing in reference to certain points raised by the calling of a special election in Sutter Creek to vote on the question of incorporation. The gist of the opinion is stated as follows:

Any person may vote at said election, whose name appears upon the great register used at the last general election, and all persons who have resided in the state one year, in the county 90 days and within the exterior boundaries of the proposed corporation for 30 days next preceding the date of said election and who have been enrolled upon the new register now in progress, 15 days before election.

The mere fact that the board of supervisors canceled the great register used at the last general election does not cancel it; where a new registration pursuant to law is not completed in point of time sufficient to permit of its use at a special election or the next ensuing election, then the register used at the last general election in any county in the state may be used.

The clerk must, before the day of election, transmit and cause to be delivered to the board of election in each precinct, a book of registration which shall constitute the register to be used at such election; he shall also cause to be delivered at the same time five copies of the index to said book.

There is ample time for every person who desires to vote at said election to become enrolled upon the new register, who is not enrolled upon the old register, as you term it, and I hereby advise you that it is your duty to post notices of the purport of this opinion in the town of Sutter Creek, and appoint sufficient deputies in said town so that each and every person residing therein may become enrolled upon the register, and which will enable them to vote at said election.

Respectfully submitted,
C. P. VICINI.

The Riverside flouring mills at Reno, Nevada, were destroyed by fire Monday night. They were valued at $30,000, fully insured. W. L. Cox, who married Miss E. Taylor of Jackson, last summer, and who has made his home there since, was employed as superintendent of the mills. It is reported that they will be rebuilt at once.

G. I. Wright returned to Jackson last Friday night, after a five months' stay in the east. During this time he placed the larger portion of the stock in the Del Monte Mining Company, and by his persistent and untiring work he has now placed this mine on a basis which seems to assure its ultimate success.

H. F. Vogt, through his attorney, Neil A. Macquarrie, has put in a protest against the homestead entry of Theodore J. Beauchemin, who offered final proof in Jackson on Monday. The protest is on the ground that a portion of the homestead is alleged to include a part of a mineral claim located by H. F. Vogt.

The board of education of Santa Clara county passed appropriate resolutions of respect on the occasion of the death of W. H. Coleman, late principal of the Amador City school, and who was a resident of Gilroy and formerly a member of the Santa Clara board of education. Upon the adoption of the resolutions the board adjourned out of respect to his memory.

A break occurred on the line of the new ditch last Wednesday, which shut off the supply of water from the mines for a short time. Breaks are unavoidable with all new ditches. They are just getting the water through the new canal, and mishaps may be expected to occur until banks get thoroughly packed. The company has a large working force prepared to fix up a break on short order.

Mrs. Folger, our postmistress, received word last week that a severe accident befel her sister, Mrs. Lottie Driscoll, in Seattle recently. She slipped and fell in her yard, and came in contact with a tub, causing a bad fracture of a rib. It will take some weeks to recover from the accident. Mrs. Driscoll has been in Jackson several times. She was visiting her sister here last September, and her many friends here will be pained to hear of her misfortune.

S. C. Wheeler of Shenandoah Valley, and F. J. Taylor of San Francisco, paid Jackson a visit Tuesday. Mr. Taylor is a mining man of note, being at present superintendent of the Western Pennsylvania mine located at Shenandoah Valley, and the Amador and Eldorado Mining Company. The latter mine is operated by a tunnel, striking the ledge at a depth of 300 feet. There is at present 1000 tons of ore on the dump, prospecting in the neighborhood of $20 per ton. A ten-stamp mill has been erected, and all preparations made to carry the work vigorously forward.

The financial result of the ball Friday evening for the benefit of the Jackson Fire Company was highly satisfactory. The total receipts were $235.25; expenses, $101.10; leaving the net proceeds at $134.15.

The estate of John Eagon, which has been pending in the superior court of this county for nearly 10 years, was finally closed yesterday. The delay was caused mainly by the difficulty in settling up some real estate matter connected with the estate; and also because Judge Rust, being a partner of the deceased, was disqualified from acting. Judge Hughes of Sacramento was selected by the governor to settle the affairs of the estate.

Just received direct from the largest tailoring houses in Chicago and New York a splendid assortment of samples of spring clothing. Call and see them at the White House.

Mrs. M. Freeman, accompanied by E. A. Freeman, went to Oakland early in the week on account of the death of H. B. Bishop, a brother-in-law of Mrs. Freeman, who died in that city last Monday. The remains were shipped to Stockton, where the funeral took place Wednesday. Deceased was a well-known capitalist of Stockton, but went to Oakland ten months ago in hope of benefit by change of climate.

On our fourth page we published the yearly financial statement of the treasurer and auditor for the year ending January, 1902. It is not a detailed statement, but nevertheless will be valuable as showing the receipts and expenses of the various funds for the past year. Our readers should preserve the statement for reference and comparison with similar reports that may be issued hereafter.

Julius, the oldest son of E. S. Pitois, started out last week to carve his own way in the world. He is sixteen years of age, and has helped his father in his work for several years. Latterly, however, the notion that he could do better for himself by striking out an independent course has taken a strong hold upon him. He did not run away from home, as some boys foolishly do when the idea of being self-supporting seizes them. But he communicated his wishes to his father, and he thought, all things considered, that it would be better for the boy to carry out his plans. So Wednesday of last week he left the parental roof with a small bundle of his belongings. He made his way to Sacramento county, and a few days after his father received a letter from him stating that he was at Mills station, and had secured employment at a farmer's place there, and expected to get $10 per month and board, and was perfectly contented with his prospects.

Wedding Bells.

At nine o'clock last Sunday morning, in the Catholic church of Jackson, Amadeo A. Massa and Miss Mary J. Ratto were united in matrimonial bonds, the Rev. J. J. Gleason officiating. The bride, richly attired in white satin, was attended by Miss Jennie Ratto, sister of the bride, as bridesmaid, who was prettily dressed in pale blue organdie. Antone Massa, brother of the groom, acted as best man.

Immediately after the ceremony the newly married couple repaired to the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. Ratto of Jackson Gate, and partook of the wedding breakfast. Shortly after twelve the happy pair departed for Ione, and remained there that night. The following morning they took the train for San Francisco, and will also visit other places of interest. After their honeymoon they will return to Jackson Gate, where they will make their future home.

A Successful Event.

Notiwthstanding the inclemency of the weather, the fireman's ball held in Jackson Friday evening, February 7, was well attended by people from the various towns of the county. The San Andreas orchestra played in its usual excellent style, affording entire satisfaction to both dancers and spectators. The grand march, led by U. G. D. Spagnoli and Miss Amelia Cademartori, began at 9:30. At midnight the merry-makers repaired to the Central and Louvre restaurants to partake of the good supper served at either place. The dance lasted until half past three. Many of our prominent firemen were present. The ball was the event of the season, and an entire success both socially and financially, due very largely in both cases, to the untiring efforts of some of the firemen's wives.

Three Years For Aldrich.

W. F. Aldrich, the young man who in November last uttered, published, and attempted to pass a forged check on F. M. Jones of this city, was arraigned before Judge Shields, acting for Judge Hart, entered a plea of guilty to the charge, waived time, and was sentenced to serve three years in the state prison at Folsom.

Aldrich raised $25 on a bogus check on the National Bank of D. O. Mills & Co., for the purpose of gambling, as he afterward confessed. He lost the sum and asked for an additional $25. The district attorney made a plea for leniency, which accounts for the light sentence imposed.—Record Union.

Aldrich was arrested in Jackson two weeks ago on the above charge. He had been in this town since November, his occupation being principally gambling.

Hienzes sweet, sour and salt pickles; also California olives in bulk at Caminetti's Central Market.

CALVIN STATION.

CALVIN STATION, Feb. 10.—Only about a foot of snow in all has fallen here this season, but the weather has been the coldest known in years. Water in watering troughs has been frozen to a depth of from 4 to 8 inches.

John Asbury, the efficient superintendent of transportation of the Standard Electric Company, with Chas. Dufrene, passed through here Wednesday, en route to Mill creek. He goes for the purpose of inspecting roads, etc., as it is his intention to haul out the Stone machinery in a few days.

The Tiger tunnel of the Standard Electric Company is about finished. The drills were taken off last week. The only work being done there now is trimming up, etc., which will require only about a week longer to finish the contract.

An unknown man came near being cremated one night last week at Camp Contreras. He had been drinking during the day, and at night went to bed in the old Duncan Robinson house. About 9 o'clock a fire was seen blazing through the windows by Mrs. Belderin, who notified her husband. Belderein ran to the building and discovered the bed on fire where the fellow lay. He pulled the sleeper out just in time, for had he remained on the bed another minute he would have been burned to a crisp. As it was he was well scorched.

Measles, which has been prevalent in this section the past two months, is almost a thing of the past.

Our roads are in a deplorable condition, but at this season of the year we can expect nothing else.

A number of timber wolves have been seen in this section lately, but as yet they have not attacked any stock.

Wm. Koop, who has been ailing the past few months, is somewhat better, and hopes are entertained of his ultimate recovery. H. D. C.

A Grand Serenade.

At 9 o'clock Monday evening a well organized crowd, armed with all the various instruments for creating a racket that the ingenious Jacksonite could conceive, ranging from horse fiddles to cowbells, assembled at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Ginocchio, and headed by the Jackson band, proceeded in silence under the guidance of grand marshal O. H. Reichling, aided by Capt. Freeman and C. B. Arditto, to a position immediately in front of the Chicago House on Broadway, the temporary residence of P. L. Cassinelli and wife. At a signal from the marshal the din began, surpassing anything in our history. A passing celestial remarked that even China New Year "isn't in it." When the noise had subsided Pete gave a smiling welcome to all his friends, and to the ladies a more emphatic demonstration of his good will. The bride, charming as ever, acted her part well, and nothing was left undone. Refreshments were served in royal style. Sandy (Mr. Greenhalgh) proposed a toast, the band played several appropriate selections, more refreshments were served, and the crowd departed, wishing the bride and groom a long life of happiness and prosperity.

Republican Club Meeting.

The regular meeting of the Jackson republican club was held last Monday, about 15 members being present. A committee consisting of two members from each precinct in Jackson, was appointed to look after the registration of republican voters in their respective precincts. The object is to see that every person entitled to vote is not only registered, but registered in his rightful precinct.

A committee of three was also appointed to draw up and forward to Governor Gage a resolution expressing the thanks of the club at the appointment of C. A. Herrick, president of the club, as a member of the state board of dental examiners.

A communication was read concerning the forthcoming convention of republican clubs to meet in San Jose in April next. At the next meeting of the local club, the delegates to attend this convention will be elected. The club is entitled to send nine or ten delegates.

It was resolved to have another smoker at the next regular meeting of the club, on the second Monday in March. The members will be notified of this gathering by postal card. A full attendance on this occasion is especially requested.

That Pipe Line.

At a meeting held in Ione last week it was decided to oppose the dismantling of the plant for sprinkling the Ione road, and selling the pipe and water tanks. What use is the material where it lies? Was the experience of last season in the sprinkling business of such a character as to justify its continuance at public expense next summer? If the pipe remains where it is, it will be fit for nothing but junk in another year or so. The money that might be realized from it now might be of some service in the permanent improvement of the roadway. The pipe and sprinkling plant belong to Amador county. The fact that private citizens contributed toward the purchase does not change the ownership, nor give the contributors any more say in its disposal than any other taxpayers. The board of supervisors ought to take some action. To allow it to rot in the ground is anything but a business proposition.

Card of Thanks.

We, the undersigned, children and relatives of the late Mrs. S. M. Nightingale, wish to express our sincere and heartfelt thanks to our many friends and neighbors who have so kindly and generously ministered unto, and sympathized with us in the midst of our great bereavement and loss.

DOCTORS AT VARIANCE

It is Pronounced Smallpox by Some. The State Board of Health Called Upon to Decide.

Sutter Creek has been shaken up and greatly agitated for several days touching the character of an eruptive disease which has been epidemic in that town for several weeks. The mildness of the disease has been the means of allaying apprehension. Children have been running around and attending school with their faces covered with blotches. The result is that the disease—which, whether smallpox or not, is certainly of a highly contagious nature—has had a free field in which to spread. It is estimated that at least 25 cases exist in our sister town. It has obtained headway in exactly the same way as the outbreak in Jackson about two years ago. The symptoms had certain well-defined characteristics of smallpox, but then again those afflicted felt little the worse for the disease, attending school and joining in play as usual, so that the people were naturally loath to believe that the much dreaded smallpox had taken quarters in their midst. The local physicians, who were attending the patients, were opposed to that opinion.

District Attorney Vicini was in Sutter Creek Tuesday afternoon, and the prevalence of the malady was brought to his attention. By this time several adults were suffering from the complaint, including Mrs. Morris, who succeeded to Mrs. Mails' business, and a Mrs. Williams. The district attorney thereupon called upon Dr. Lewis, who was the attending physician in most of the cases, and told him of the reports that were afloat. It was then decided to send for Dr. Gall of Jackson, who had much experience in such cases during the outbreak here. He went over to Sutter Creek, and upon visiting one of the cases, unhesitatingly pronounced it smallpox—the same that prevailed at the county seat two years ago. Still the local doctors would not accept this verdict, Dr. Goodman strongly protesting against such a diagnosis.

Dr. E. E. Endicott, who was health officer when the county seat was visited, was summoned, and he said it was smallpox.

The judgment of two physicians who had passed through the ordeal at the county seat, ought to have settled the question, but it did not.

Finally the district attorney decided to appeal to the state authorities. He called up W. P. Matthews, secretary of the state board of health, and requested that a medical officer of the state be sent to Sutter Creek to determine the nature of the outbreak. He was expected to arrive in Sutter Creek last night. His verdict will be taken as decisive. In the meantime, no rigid quarantine was established. The precaution was taken to prevent those suffering from the eruption from attending school; Mrs. Morris' business was closed temporarily, but no guards were appointed to watch the infected places. The laundry wagons from Sutter Creek visit the neighboring towns delivering and gathering up clothing the same as usual.

The prevailing opinion of those who have had experience in such cases, is that a mild type of smallpox—such as has appeared more or less in almost every part of the state—exists in Sutter Creek. Nearly all the cases are simple and comparitively harmless types of varioloid. Two cases of confluent smallpox are said to exist. There is no need to be alarmed, however. With ordinary precautions, the epidemic will soon disappear, as it has in every place as soon as protective measures have been taken. The circumstances do not call for any harsh or severe restrictive methods against the afflicted town. We have been in the same predicament not so long ago, and while it is wise to take all reasonable precautions to guard against exposure, still there is not the slightest necessity for the interruption of everyday business relations with Sutter Creek.

Dr. Hanna, of Sacramento, a representative of the state board of heath, arrived in Sutter Creek last night, and pronounced the disease smallpox. This is decisive of the whole matter. An effective quarantine has been established, and everything done to confine the contagion within its present limits.

The fling at the Jackson doctors contained in the Amador Record is very untimely and uncalled-for. The county seat physicians have learned to know smallpox when they see it. Sutter Creek medicos will probably know it hereafter.

Big Landslide.

A bad break occurred on the line of the old canal below the Petty reservoir last Sunday. The managers started to fill the new reservoir, known as the Petty reservoir. This is a small affair, compared with the Tabeaud reservoir, being 1000 feet long, 60 feet wide, and 15 feet deep. The work of filling an earth reservoir has to be very carefully and gradually done. Seepage and breaks incident thereto are not uncommon occurrences in connection with new reservoirs, and it is usual to raise the water very gradually at first to guard against these mishaps. The banks of the reservoir at Petty did not give way in any place, but the seepage therefrom weakened a portion of the old Amador canal below, filling it up for a distance of 60 feet and also causing quite a break. A force of men was at work Sunday night repairing, and also during Monday. The electric lights were shut off about 8 o'clock Monday morning, but Monday night everything was in running order again.

MINING NEWS.

KIRKWOOD.—Last evening a meeting of those interested in the Kirkwood mine was held in Judge Davis' office, when all obstacles in the way of the resumption of work were overcome. Papers were drawn up giving the company a five years' bond, and also the mineral right to additional ground on the west. Also an ironclad pooling arrangement was entered into binding the promoters not to enter into any arrangement that would benefit themselves until all the other subscribers have received their stock. New life has been infused into the company, and operations will start up in a few days.

KENNEDY.—While in Washington recently Senator John F. Davis succeeded in getting the land office authorities to advance the hearing on the unpatented portion of the Clyde quartz mine, which is owned by the Kennedy Company, and is a part of the mine now being worked. The application for patent has been held up in the land office since 1873. Last weeks instructions were sent to the Sacramento land office to receive the entry money and issue the receipt. This practically settles the controversy, as there is now no conflict of interest between the placer and quartz claimants, which was the original cause of the delay.

AMADOR CITY.

Stillman F. Kelley of Boston, the managing spirit of the South Spring Hill, paid our little town a visit in the interest of the company. If Mr. Kelley has his way, the mine will be reopened and equipped equal to any mine in the county. The majority of the company are financially well able to do this, and Mr. Kelley has paid the mine a visit in their interest. Supt. Tregloan has been trying to get them to come out for over a year. While here he visited the principal mines in the county.

Mr. Charles Gerard of San Jose, has accepted the position of principal in our school.

Mrs. Blair left Tuesday for a visit with her parents at Mariposa.

The memorial service for the late Rev. Jas. Jeffery was held Sunday evening in the M. E. church, and was conducted by Mr. Burchett. The A. O. F. order, of which Mr. Jeffery was a faithful member, attended church in a body.

A shadow of gloom was spread over our town last Saturday evening when the very sad news came telling of the death of W. H. Coleman, formerly principal of our school. When he returned, after spending the holidays at his home in Gilroy, his health was quite poorly. However, he succeeded in teaching a week, but finally had to give up entirely. He was sick here for two weeks, and as he continued to fail he decided to go home, which he did two weeks ago Tuesday. He breathed his last on Friday morning, and was buried at Gilroy on Sunday. Mr. Coleman was highly esteemed by all with whom he came in contact, and the trustees of the public school, in order to aid him to retain his position, closed his room for a week, and hired a substitute for two weeks longer. Mr. Coleman, as a teacher, had won the love of all his students, for whom he often inconvenienced himself, and many tears were shed when they heard the sad news. The pupils of his room immediately draped his desk with beautiful flowers, and the trustees ordered the flag over the school building to be half-masted for thirty days.

PINE GROVE.

On Tuesday, February 3, a literary and debating society was organized by the young folks of this burg. The officers elected are as follows: President, H. Griffin; Vice Pres., Miss Lillis A. Bradshaw; Secretary, Miss Barstow; Treasurer, Chas. Ludekens. The first debate was held last Tuesday, the subject being, "Resolved, that woman exerts a greater influence as a civilizing agent than man." The affirmative side was presented by W. Wilson and Lottie Luttrell, and the negative by Miss Lillis Bradshaw and A. Jones. The meetings are held in the church, although the society itself is nonsectarian. These meetings are likely to prove not only interesting, but instructive and profitable. They are just what is needed in a small village community, and tend to promote sociability and develop the literary and oratorical powers of the members.

A valuable horse belonging to W. W. Stewart fell into a prospect hole about 12 feet deep while running on his ranch a few days ago. While engaged in plowing with other animals, this horse was crowded in some way too close to the brink and fell in. With prompt assistance of neighbors, the horse, after considerable trouble, was extricated without serious injury.

A child of R. Luttrell has been dangerously sick with pneumonia, but is now pronounced out of danger.

Mrs. Hammond and daughter from Idaho, are visiting near Pine Grove, guests of W. W. Stewart. Mrs. Hammond's brother, Mr. Stewart, met them at Stockton last Monday, and accompanied them to Pine Grove.

In Memoriam.

Miss S. M. Page was born in Liverpool, England, September 19, 1828, and died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Augusta Fleming, in Jackson, February 9, 1902. The subject of this notice spent most of her girlhood days in London, England. At 18 years of age she came to America in a sailing vessel. The journey was accomplished in about 6 months' time. She came by the way of the Gulf of Mexico to New Orleans, and then up the Mississippi river to St. Louis. In 1858 she, in company with others, crossed the western plains and located at Virginia City, Nevada. Five months' time was consumed in this overland ox-team route. Indians were numerous and hostile at this time in the different sections through which these emigrants were obliged to travel. After 4 years' sojourn in Virginia City, she moved to California and lived for the most part in Sacramento, Tuolumne, Alpine and Amador counties. In the year 1850, she married John F. Davis, who died in 1864. By this union one son, who died in childhood, and one daughter, Mrs. A. Fleming of Jackson, were born unto them. She married her second husband, Tom Bastian, brother of James B. Bastian of Amador City, in 1868. He was accidentally killed after scarcely one year of a happy married life. She married John Nightingale in 1873, who died July 4, 1892. Among those who mourn her demise are her daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Fleming and grand-daughter Eileen Fleming, of Jackson; also her stepchildren, Mrs. Susana Perry and Mrs. Mary E. Sperry of Stockton, and Mr. M. J. Nightingale of Oakdale, Cal.

At the age of 12 Mrs. Nightingale gave her heart to God, and since that time has been a firm and devout believer in salvation through Jesus Christ. Her benevolent heart sympathized with and her willing hands were extended in aid to the suffering and destitute. Want went smiling from her door. She sacrificed her own comforts in order to aid others whom she felt were less-fortunate than herself. Her interest and devotion in her own family circle was beautiful and wholesome. The spirit of the Master was practically demonstrated in her life work. In her last sickness she was a great sufferer. She felt that if it was God's will, she would like to enter her heavenly home. "I have a desire to depart and to be with Christ, which is far better." She said to her daughter, whose gentle ministrations were in abundance, "You are praying that I may get well. Pray that I may pass away and be at rest." Notwithstanding the efforts of trained nurses, and skillful physicians, and the ministrations of friends, she quietly and peacefully passed to the inner circle of loved ones gone before.

The Last Heard Of It.

"My little son took the croup one night and soon grew so bad you could hear him breathe all over the house," says F. D. Reynolds, Mansfield, O. "We feared he would die, but a few doses of One Minute Cough Cure quickly relieved him and he went to sleep. That's the last we heard of the croup. Now isn't a cough cure like that valuable?" One Minute Cough Cure is absolutely safe and acts immediately. For coughs, colds, grip, bronchitis and all other throat and lung troubles it is a certain cure. Very pleasant to take. The little ones like it. Kerr's Pharmacy, Jackson.

A TRIP TO ALASKA.

Going Through the Ice.

On the 15th of June, 1901, the S. S. Valencia steamed out of Unalaska harbor for the north. For one week prior thereto, we had laid still at the wharf at the aforementioned place, as the insurance companies in which the Valencia and her cargo were insured had forbidden in their stipulations for the boat to proceed northward before the 15th of June as a precaution against the danger of the ice they knew full well would be ahead. For one day and night after leaving Unalaska we steamed through the cold, blue, iceless sea that dashed with a continuous splashing sound against the iron sides of the Valencia. Not an object of interest had we seen up to this time, and only the broad expanse of a restless ocean standing out with dull monotony before our view. Occasionally a whale would send a shaft of spouting water far into the air, and all eyes would be turned in that direction. Only a glimpse of the whale could be seen as he threw his tail upward and dived beneath the dark blue waves of the sea, and was seen no more. The tireless seagull followed the vessel continually, feeding from the garbage thrown from the vessel, and when tired they lit with half folded wings upon the crest of a rolling wave, touching the water with their feet and seemed to be walking upon it, then suddenly their wings would drop to their sides and with the lightness and ease of a cork in a pail of disturbed well water would be carried along by the waves.

On the 17th of June, just as the sun was rising through the cold dim mist that hung like a shadow before it, I came out on deck and looked toward the north. A sea of floating ice stood before the vision. A solitary iceberg, half as big as a block in a city, glided, snail like, a few hundred feet past us. A cerulean tint of azury blue appeared to be painted at its base, and as the sea gently dashed upon it, seemed that some invisible artist was painting upon it for the gaze of the gods. The corrugated surface of the iceberg sparkled with the glitter of a diadem, and sent a thrill of ecstatic delight through me. The Valencia was slowly approaching the great ice floe ahead. I climbed up behind the smoke stack to get a better view of the immensity of ice that stood like a great ocean itself before us. Ice! ice! ice! masses large enough in body to have acted as a base for the city of San Francisco. The ocean was calm and the great mass moved slowly onward, bobbing, nodding, and bathing itself in the cold blue waves of the rippling sea. Upon its uneven surface seemed to spring spires, domes, pyramids, turrets, and ancient citadels. The captain in the lookout 60 or 80 feet above us was critically surveying the sea of floating ice with his glass. The Valencia steamed up within a half mile of the floe when her engines were stopped, and we awaited the floe to show an opening. We dare not approach too close lest the great mass might jam or wrench the vessel. The trip to the Valencia was not a new one as she belonged to the Pacific Whaling Company and had faced the ice more than once before. After an hour or so a break appeared in the ice, and beyond it was a space of open sea. The engines on the vessel were started up, and we ran at full speed for the opening. Detached pieces of ice occasionally struck the vessel with a rasping, grating sound, then thrown back by the momentum of the vessel, moved onward after the great floe as a weary migratory bird following a great flock. We again stopped, after passing through the opening, for beyond us was another great body of moving ice. The captain was cautious and wary, and watched with solicitude and eagerness as a prize fighter would for an opening, and whenever one showed itself the engines were put at full speed, dodging here and there among the great detached floating icebergs of the sea. Therefore we stopped, we moved, we moved, and we stopped until the impatient passengers were eager for the boat to buck the ice. One day while waiting for a chance to proceed, a little boy of 5 or 6 summers approached the captain, and raising his little face to that of the officer's, said in an emphatic, boyish tone: "Captain, are we stuck in the mud?" Had the interlocutor been aught but a child or a woman he would have turned upon him with a snarl, and shouted in stentorian tones, "Go to ——" but as it was he turned, and with a bland smile walked slowly away. One day while lying still off the coast of St. Lawrence island, some one shouted, "See the Esquimaux!" Sure enough, two Esquimaux Indians in their delicate cigar shaped kiacks were coming toward us. When they were close to the vessel's side they halooed, "Powder, whiskey," but the boat officials concluded that powder and whiskey were antagonistic agencies in the hands of an Indian and refused their request. On the morning of the 19th of June the clear cut, blue outlines of Sledge Island arose bold and clear out of the ocean. The ice was now gone. The anvil mountains back of Nome arose snow-capped in the distance. The shore line, hazy and indistinct, broke upon the vision cold and dreary, and the city of Nome without any appetite and all run down. As I was about to give up, I got a bottle of Electric Bitters and, after taking it, I felt as well as I ever did in my life." Weak, sickly, run down people always gain new life, strength and vigor from their use. Try them. Satisfaction guaranteed by D. B. Spagnoli. Price 50 cents.

Clerk's Wise Suggestion.

"I have lately been much troubled with dyspepsia, belching and sour stomach," writes M. S. Mead, leading pharmacist of Attleboro, Mass. "I could eat hardly anything without suffering several hours. My clerk suggested I try Kodol Dyspepsia Cure which I did with most happy results. I have had no more trouble and when one can go to eating mince pie, cheese, candy and nuts after such a time, their digestion must be pretty good. I endorse Kodol Dyspepsia Cure heartily." You don't have to diet. Eat all the good food you want but don't overload the stomach. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests your food. Kerr's Pharmacy, Jackson.

CAMP OPRA.

Report says that the Buena Vista Copper Mining and Reduction Company are now prepared to rush the work of cleaning out the old-time shaft on their property. It is thought by those who are supposed to know, that the work of cleaning out will take two years at the present rate of progress. However that may be, the company offers good wages and a fine chance to buy stock.

Mining and woodchopping are important branches of industry in this part of Amador county at present.

Everything is looking fine hereabouts from the standpoint of agriculture since the last rains.

Weak, sickly, run down people always gain new life, strength and vigor from their use. Try them. Satisfaction guaranteed by D. B. Spagnoli. Price 50 cents.

JOHN STEINER, - Proprietor

His Foot Was In the Way.

A gentlemanly chap riding in an elevated car permitted the sight of a man's foot in the middle of the aisle to exasperate him to a most unreasonable degree. Women tripped over it. Men stepped over it. A few folk purposely dragged their feet against it as a hint. But its owner calmly read his paper and moved not. Finally, "I beg your pardon, my friend," said the gentlemanly chap, leaning down, his face set and teeth clinched, "but don't you think you are taking up more room than you are entitled to? Your foot has been in every one's way for half an hour. I protest, sir!"

The man folded his paper, remarking without the least show of anger: "Ah, thank you. I had not noticed it." With that he reached down, picked up his foot, gave it a violent twist and pushed it partly under the seat. To accomplish this he had to move his body to the edge of the seat.

On discovering that the leg and foot were wooden our gentlemanlike chap blushed in confusion, muttered a sort of apology and hurried off at the next station, while the car tittered.—New York Press.

Very Trying.

"Johnny," said a provincial grocer to the new boy, "what kind of butter did you send over to the Hendersons?"

"Some of the rolls here," said the new boy respectfully.

"Oh, great Cæsar!" groaned the grocer. "Sent 'em some of that good butter just after I have got 'em down to this here in the barrel! Sent 'em the best butter in the shop just as I finish a two years' course of getting 'em down to the barrel butter! Gave 'em a taste of good butter after I have got 'em to think this barrel butter was the best in the world! And still you say you hope to own a grocer's shop some day! The taste of that butter you sent 'em will awaken all their old slumbering desires for good butter, and I'll have to work another two years getting 'em down a little poorer each time before I get 'em where there's any profit on 'em again! You might just as well put on your coat and go. Groceries ain't your line!"—London Tit-Bits.

The Oldest Tree on Earth.

The oldest tree on earth, at least as far as any one knows, is the boo tree in the sacred city of Amarapoora, Burma. It was planted, the record says, in the year 288 B. C. Its great age is proved according to historic documents, says Sir James Emerson, who adds: "To it kings have dedicated their dominions in testimony of a belief that it is a branch of the identical fig tree under which Buddah reclined at Urumelva when he underwent his apotheosis." Its leaves are carried away by pilgrims as relics; but, as it is too sacred to touch with a knife, these leaves can only be gathered after they have fallen.

A Boston Rake.

Bertha—Tell me, Harry, do you think George is dissipated? I smelled cloves on his breath last evening, and I am afraid he drinks.

Harry—No, Bertha; he isn't dissipated. He's only just an ass; nothing more. He eats cloves to make people think he drinks liquor. He wants to be regarded as a deuce of a fellow, you know.—Boston Transcript.

He Didn't Die.

Laura—While Jack was here the other evening he made the statement that he would kiss me or die in the attempt.

Belle—Yes? (After a pause.) Well, did he kiss you?

Laura—You haven't read any account of Jack's death in the papers, have you?

Ancestors of the Ostrich.

The ostrich is a descendant of a genus of bird which in prehistoric times attained an enormous size. In the alluvial deposits of Madagascar evidence has been found to show that ostriches fourteen and fifteen feet in height once lived on the island.

At a French Table d'Hote.

He—Sh! If the head waiter heard you, he'd charge us for a portion of snails.—New York Commercial Advertiser.

Burns and Scalds.

In cases of burns or scalds, when the skin is unbroken, cover the burn with white lead paint, glycerin, fresh lard, linseed, olive, sweet or lard oil or soapsuds. If the skin is broken, pour a mixture of oil and limewater (either linseed, olive, sweet or lard oil) in equal parts over the injury. Then place a soft piece of white linen or muslin wet with the oil mixture on the wound. Then loosely wind a bandage over this, removing it from time to time to wet the linen with the oil mixture. Never attempt to uncover the injury.

The Finishing Touches.

A girl who had been very clever at college came home the other day and said to her mother:

"Mother, I've graduated, but now I must inform myself in psychology, philology, bibl"—

"Just wait a minute," said the mother. "I have arranged for you a thorough course in roastology, boilology, stitchology, darnology, patchology and general domesticology. Now, put on your apron and pluck that chicken."

Unfortunately.

They were driving together when Miss Rocks, unsolicited, gurgled forth her views upon matrimony. "Love is a dreary desert," she said, "and marriage an oasis," whereupon Mr. Shyly remarked that "certainly it did require a deal of sand."—Boston Traveler.
